Show book sale

With our coin show rapidly approaching in early September, our bookstall needs all the books, pamphlets and magazines we can get!

So if anyone has some laying around that they've read a dozen times and they want to see them go to fellow coin collectors at our show on Labor Day weekend, please let me know.

To consign books, fill out the attached consignment form listing the books and place a sticker on outside of each book listing the price and your name or initials.

Make sure you let us know if you are willing to do percentages off if a customer asks. If your book sells, we write down your name and the price it sold for. You bring your own books to the coin show and pick up any that don't sell at the end of the last day of the coin show on Sunday.

CONA takes 10 percent of the sale of the books. You can also donate your magazines for free and just leave them on the literature table for people to grab up.

Just make sure you let us know which magazines are free and which are being sold (use a sale sticker). We keep track of all sales using a form and inventory on Excel. Thanks! --- Rachael W

Scenes from the picnic

Great fun. Great food. Great friends. The 2018 picnic was a wonderful event. About 40 members feasted on well-prepared hamburgers, hot dogs, deviled eggs, salads and desserts. The annual auction included a set of the Big Mac tokens released a couple days before. Steve Petty took them home with a donation to the Ronald McDonald House.

The centerpieces were won by Marlene C , Pete M , Nancy B , Geoff G , Garlene S , Harold S , Beth R and Patty Cass.

Jefferson 5-cent piece turns 80 in 2018

The Jefferson nickel turns 80 this year. This is how The New York Times reported on the new coin.

April 22, 1938

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 11, 1938

NEW NICKELS OUT TUESDAY

11,000,000 of Jefferson Coins Being Distributed to Banks

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (AP).—Secretary Morgenthau announced today that the new Jefferson nickels would be available to the public starting Tuesday.

About 11,000,000 of the new five-cent pieces are being shipped to the Federal Reserve Banks and through them to the commercial banks of the country.

Replacing the 25-year-old Indian-Buffalo design, the new nickels portray a profile of Thomas Jefferson, third President and author of the Declaration of Independence on one side, and his Monticello home on the other.

On April 22, 1938, the paper revealed the winning design in a competition that drew 390 artists.

The Mint accepted Felix Schlag's obverse, but wanted him to design a completely different reverse.

The new nickel went into circulation Nov. 15, 1938.

Schlag, who immigrated to the U.S. in 1929, is probably the only designer of a U.S. coin to have been awarded the Iron Cross. Fighting for Germany in World War I, Schlag was severely wounded and spent much of the war recuperating.

His son, a Nazi soldier in World War II, died on the Eastern Front toward the end of the war.
